FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Cammie Chatterton joins Get Live 45 Foundation executive board

TAMPA, Fla. (Jan. 25, 2022) — Cammie Chatterton, owner, president and CEO of Tampa-based Bay Food Brokerage, has joined the executive board of the nonprofit Get Live 45 Foundation.

Founded in 2021 by Tampa Bay Buccaneers linebacker Devin White, the purpose of the Get Live 45 Foundation is to give the magic of hope and comfort during life's meaningful moments to Tampa-area foster children.

"Devin's focus is on the youth in our community and how we can make their lives better, and my focus on giving back has always been connected with children," Chatterton said. "Our children are our future, and we all must do more to show them that they are loved and cared for in this world. Devin is doing exactly that with his foundation, and I am thrilled and honored to be a part of his vision."

The Get Live 45 Foundation launched with a gala on Dec. 13 that raised over $197,000 through sponsorships, ticket sales, live and silent auction items, and donations. The event proceeds supported the foundation's 2021 Christmas program for children in foster care, and will support the foundation's future back-to-school and graduation outreach programs.

Very active in the local nonprofit and business community, Chatterton also currently serves on board of directors for the capital campaign of Feeding Tampa Bay, is a member of the board of directors for the Tampa Bay Chamber, and is a member of CEO Council of Tampa Bay and the Jesuit High School Parent Alumni organization.

"Getting involved in our local community is extremely important to me, personally, and to our whole team at Bay Food Brokerage," Chatterton said. "We love giving back and paying it forward."
